The Centerm Expansion Project and South Shore Access Project are being developed according to a 'design-build' project implementation strategy. With this approach, a single contractor is responsible for both designing and building the project within criteria provided by the project team and specified in the project permit conditions.